The New Generation Expands!

Piper 6 months

The Home Front

Summer started off with Grant having a humdinger of a cold. That pretty much wiped out any early travels. We just hung around until the 4th of July parade was over.

Grant painted the house this year - a six month project in all (with rain delays and other interruptions).

The trip was the reverse of last years. Up to Lassen. Took a new hike to a lake we hadn't seen before.

Then up to Lava Beds of course. Toured the historic places of Tule Lake including the World War II Japanese internment camp. An interesting if sad part of our history.

Next up to a place in Oregon that was recommended by the camp hosts at Lava Beds, Newberry Crater National Monument, South of Bend.

The campground was next to a lake in a huge volcanic caldera. Beautiful and quiet.

Down to Crater Lake again. Then a visit with Tory and Carl who were house sitting for Lorenda.

Kevin and Audra

Kevin changed jobs this year. He works for a cabinet manufacturer in Pittsburg. He likes it. Quite a commute, about an hour and a quarter. Audra is starting a business of Candle parties. She is enthused about the idea and has done several parties already. The kids are growing. Piper is a quiet little thing.

Phillip as Peter Pan for Halloween - Scary?

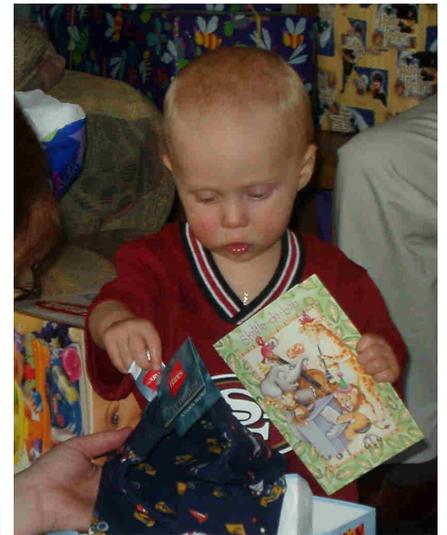

Charlie

Charlie is working for a contractor that does site preparation work. He gets to do a number of different things in his job including driving truck, running equipment and other odds and ends. He is taking a trip to the Southwest this winter. Hoping to see some silver and turquoise in Arizona.

Pat and Julie

Nicholas turned one year old November 6. He is running around and very inquisitive.

The next big news is that the family expects to grow again. Julie is expecting in Summer. So this will mean four grandchildren in three years. Bodwells will populate the world at this rate. Maybe we can start our own state.

CLASSIFIED ADS

For Sale: several very used paint cans. Three colors dripped down the sides. Very tasteful. Even more paint rollers, slightly stiff but could be used for wheel chocks or mortar launchers. You just never know what you'll need. Next day delivery possible with the right offer.

Merry Christmas
